Supreme Court strikes back with vengeance

The Supreme Court dashed the PML(N)'s hopes of fully exonerating Nawaz Sharif's return and thus satisfied its ego when, right in front of the Supreme Court gate, while addressing thousands of coalition party supporters, the PDM leadership threatened the judges to resign and go home if they dared to rule in favour of the PTI and against the coalition government. Threatened by the government and parliament, as well as hundreds of charged workers, the supreme court was irritated but restrained itself to instructing the attorney general to warn the administration and parliament not to use disrespectful language about the Pakistan Supreme Court. On the other hand, it did not press for the implementation of its ruling, which had called on the government, parliament, and the election commission to convene the Punjab assembly elections within 90 days, which they all brutally ignored.

The power to decide the timing of the election, it is the considered opinion of the jurist that this implies that the election commission can decide the date of election within 90 days or prior to 90 days but not beyond 90 days. I hope that there will be a lot of litigation about the interpretation of the Election Commission's powers in determining election dates.

The PML(N) was so enamoured with power and backing from the appropriate quarters that it made the return of Nawaz Sharif a must for holding the next general election. It was also conditional on providing a level playing field, which according to the PML(N) narrative meant equally the balancing panel of justice for the Nawaz family. It meant removal of Imran Khan and placing Shahbaz in his place, quashing of all cases against Nawaz Sharif and his family, imprison Imran Khan, as he had done to Nawaz Sharif, his daughter Maryam Nawaz and his brother Shahaz Sharif and majority of the PML(N) leadership, removing PTI from power from Punjab, KP and Kashmir, embroiled Imran Khan into as many cases as possible as he did to her and to her family, Shatter PTI and unnerve Imran Khan. While the PML(N) reached one milestone after another, it also took legal steps to reinstate Nawaz Sharif as Prime Minister for the fourth time, unless he abdicated in favour of his brother or daughter.

With a two-thirds majority in both houses of parliament, the PML(N) was unable to amend Article 188 to grant Nawaz the right to appeal the 10-year prison term imposed by the Accountability Court in Islamabad on July 6, 2018, on charges of corruption related to the purchase of four London flats. In addition, he was fined PKR 1.1 billion (USD 7.8 million). Sharif had already exhausted his right of review appeal, which had previously been dismissed by Pakistan's Supreme Court on January 14th, 2019 and had reached finality.

Court, which dismissed the suit in July 2018. As a result, this decision is now definitive.

The convictions in both cases have since reached finality under Article 188 of the Constitution, which allows the Supreme Court to review its own decisions, and Article 189, which states that "Any decision of the Supreme Court that decides a legal question or is based on or articulates a legal principle shall be binding on all other courts in Pakistan." To get around the lack of a two-thirds majority in both chambers of parliament, the PML(N) enacted the Supreme Court Practise and Procedure Act 2023 (SCPPA 2023), which was rubber stamped by the opposition-free Assembly on July 1, 2023. This statute curtailed several of the Chief Justice's powers while broadening the scope of the Supreme Court's review jurisdiction by granting the appellant the authority to file an appeal against the Supreme Court's own decision, but before a different bench than had announced the initial decision.

The Supreme Court, on the other hand, suspended the law even before it became an act, and in the meanwhile began regular hearings and timed the publication of the ultimate ruling with the date of dissolution of the National Assembly and termination of the government to minimise the anticipated reaction and protest.

Earlier, on July 28, 2017, the Supreme Court of Pakistan disqualified Nawaz Sharif from holding public office for life in a different case. The Court also prevented him from running for office for ten years and ordered that his assets be frozen. The judgement was made in response to a petition brought by the Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI), which claimed Sharif had acquired assets outside of his known sources of income. Nawaz Sharif contested the Court's verdict at the Lahore High Court, but the decision was affirmed. Sharif then petitioned the Supreme

Chinese company to help Pakistan boost edible oil production

Pakistan's annual consumption of edible oil is around 5 million tons, but due to the low economic potential of oilseeds in the local market, they are not preferred by the farmers.

The country has to import about 89 percent of oil to meet the demand, spending US$3.6 billion annually.

Pakistan's iron brother, China, also has great demand for edible oil.

Last year, China's cooking oil consumption is about 13.44 million tons. China also suffered a short domestic supply of edible oil until the mid-1950s, when China began to promote brassica napus, also known as victory rapeseed.

Brassica napus plants are tall, disease resistant, and more importantly, the yield is very high.

The improvement of rapeseed varieties laid the foundation for China to greatly increase rapeseed production.

In recent years, the Chinese Academy of Agricultural Sciences (CAAS) has made a great breakthrough in breeding new varieties of rapeseed, which have been extended to some parts of northern China.

Rapeseed now realized seasonal rotation with rice, wheat and other staple crops, which maximizes the utilization of arable land. Such Chinese experience and technologies can be a good reference for Pakistan, according to CEN.

Chinese company Wuhan Qingfa-Hesheng and a Pakistani company Eviol Group jointly provide high-quality hybrid rapeseeds to Pakistani farmers.

"It took us 10 years to produce a variety that is compatible with the local climate, produces a good yield and is good for human health," said Ghazanfar Ali, head of marketing in the Eviol group.

"The crop provides an increased profit for the farmers. They can get 1.5 tons of yield out of 2 acres of land, which is over 10 percent more than the yield from other varieties currently available in Pakistan."

"This year we sold 11 tons of seeds across Pakistan, which will be cultivated on 20,000 acres, and our target for next year is 100 tons," said Zhou Xusheng, director of the international business department of Wuhan Qingfa-Hesheng Seed company.

The Chinese company will also buy back the canola harvest from some of the farmers and send it to the edible oil factories so that both farmer and the factory owners can realize the potential and health benefits of the oil.

Independence Day and internal Enemies of Pakistan - II

The entire nation is adorned with the colors of the flag as people dress up in green and white, and streets are decorated with bunting and lights. Patriotic songs and national anthems fill the air, and various cultural events, parades, and ceremonies are organized across the country. The President and Prime Minister of Pakistan deliver speeches highlighting the nation's achievements and future goals. Prayers are offered for the prosperity and well-being of the nation, and homage is paid to the leaders and individuals who played a pivotal role in the struggle for independence.

The same old things are repeated, but the newspaper itself writes that "we have not received confirmation of the cipher from any source." On this account, any one and PTI members like Adil Raja can make up a story by himself and give it to the American newspaper that these are cipher words and tell that we are related to the army and this newspaper will print it. Although this newspaper itself clearly admits that they have not received confirmation of the cipher from any reliable sources. If this cipher narrative was true, then the PDM government would have supported Ukraine on the war in Ukraine, but not only Pakistan remained neutral, but despite American pressure in the United Nations, Pakistan did not support Ukraine. Then what benefited the United States from the removing Imran Khan (according to him) whereas decisions and policy remained neutral. It is also clear here that Tehreek-e-Insaaf is giving huge sums of money to its lobby groups in America and using all energies to defame Pakistan and its institutions. Adil Raja can also prove to this newspaper that I belong to the army by writing the cipher himself because this newspaper is admitting that we have not verified this cipher from any credible source. The US Department of State also said that the US is not involved in any conspiracy against the Chairman Tehreek-e-Insaaf and former Pakistani Prime Minister Imran Khan. Spokesperson of the US Department of State, Matthew Miller, said in a press conference that the allegations leveled against the US regarding Pakistan are false and will remain false. The evidences clearly show that Imran Khan is using cipher drama just for his political interests. He doesn't care for dignity of Pakistan he is only interested for himself and his political gains.

Then recently, alleged diary of Bushra Bibi, the wife of Imran Khan, the chairman of Pakistan Movement for Democracy, has come to light in which shocking and eye-catching revelations have come out. In the alleged diary, Bushra Bibi is giving political dictation to Chairman PTI, Bushra Bibi is even telling when and what will be the political strategy of PTI, Bushra Bibi is also telling that Who will put pressure on the judiciary, the army and the government? In the alleged diary of Bushra Bibi, it has also been revealed that if the governor imposes the rule, then preparations should be made for legal proceedings and closing the city, if the governor imposes the rule, then the wheel jam strike should be carried out. It has also been revealed in the alleged diary that there is so much pressure that the court cannot give a negative decision, i.e. there are many people, not announcing first and not telling the party how many days you are coming, on the day of the court decision. It is necessary to create a public atmosphere from morning so that the court cannot make any negative decision, it is better to get a statement from big lawyers, just to keep a pressure. In the alleged diary of Imran Khan's wife, it has also been revealed that some important questions that the lawyers have to ask and Khan did not speak are: Why is every request we bring for justice not heard?

Bandial has come, Nawaz had said that now let's see how this government will last. Pakistan is facing a wave of terrorism from TTP and on the other side is PTI which is playing the role of an enemy from within the country. They are ready to go to any extent for their personal and political interests.

Readers, Pakistan Day, celebrated on the 14th of August, is a day of immense pride and significance for all Pakistanis. It marks the hard-fought freedom from British colonial rule and the creation of an independent Muslim state. The day is celebrated with great fervor and patriotism, reinforcing the spirit of unity and progress. As Pakistan looks back on its journey since independence and sets its course for the future, it is crucial to remember the sacrifices of the past and work together to build a strong, prosperous, and harmonious nation. Pakistan Day serves as a constant reminder of the values and principles that form the foundation of this great nation, inspiring generations to come. The day also demands to take strict actions against the internal enemies of the country and its remarkable army who are continuously engaged in malicious attacks against the country and its institutions. The nation also demands that the real Independence should be ensured also by teaching strict lesson to internal anti-state elements.

Are we experiencing a phase of intellectual obscurity in the Muslim world? - I

It is a widely acknowledged reality that among the 1.6 billion Muslims worldwide, their contribution to global knowledge is disproportionately modest. Despite being the majority populace in 57 nations and having a presence in nearly every country, only three Nobel laureates in science have emerged from this community throughout the history of the esteemed Nobel Prize. The representation of universities from the Organization of Islamic Cooperation (OIC) member states within the top 500 global universities is marginally better, though not by much.

Beyond clichés, there exists a widely held perspective that the advancement of science in the Muslim world significantly trails behind the progress seen in other parts of the globe. This belief is partly grounded in indicators such as worldwide university rankings, investment in research, the ratio of researchers per million inhabitants, and the performance of students before university. The reasons for this underperformance and potential strategies for improvement are subjects of vigorous debate.

In recent times, numerous countries with Muslim-majority populations have taken significant strides to allocate their limited resources towards enhancing scientific advancement in general, and specifically, in improving their universities. These efforts aim to bring about a transformative change in a situation that has persisted for decades, if not centuries. Universities serve as the cornerstone of a knowledge-based society. In developed regions, these institutions have evolved over several centuries, specializing in the creation and dissemination of knowledge.

In the Muslim world, especially within the Arab nations, universities have emerged relatively recently. A significant portion of Arab universities, about 75%, were established during the last 25 years of the 20th century.

Universities in Muslim-majority countries have generally ranked poorly in global university rankings. For instance, in the 2014-15 QS World University Rankings, no Muslim-majority university made the top 100, and only 17 were in the top 400. The need to improve rankings and establish world-class universities has been emphasized, with limited success. A notable discovery is the limited scope of scientific education in many universities across the Islamic world. In numerous OIC nations, students typically choose their scientific path between the ages of 14 and 18, after which their studies become highly focused within their selected field. This approach hinders the cultivation of diverse interests and poses obstacles to a successful and fulfilling scientific career.

Another area of deficiency in the science education within the Muslim world pertains to the absence of philosophy and the history of science in university curricula. Consequently, proficient scientists often miss out on delving deeper into this captivating realm of knowledge, impeding their ability to pose essential critical inquiries. The concept of a contemporary university that interweaves science with history and philosophy can potentially address this gap.

ISSI's Web celebration on Independence Day 2023

Spokesman Report

ISLAMABAD: Abiding commitment to the vision of founding founder Quaid-e-Azam Mohammad Ali Jinnah is the best path forward for Pakistan on its way to sustainable peace, progress and prosperity. This was stressed by Amb Sohail Mahmood, Director General Institute of Strategic Studies (ISSI), at the Institute's web celebration of Independence Day 2023.

Hosted by ISSI's Arms Control & Disarmament Centre (ACDC), the web celebration was moderated by Director ACDC Malik Qasim Mustafa and attended by the research faculty and staff of ISSI.

A presentation on the theme "Peace Within and Peace Without," was given by ACDC Research Associate Ms. Aamna Rafiq. She stated that despite complex and difficult geopolitical, geoeconomic, and geostrategic dynamics in the regional and global landscape, Pakistan has faithfully adhered to the Quaid's vision of peaceful coexistence with all states.

In his remarks, DG ISSI Ambassador Sohail Mahmood said that independence anniversaries are always special occasions — as they entail both celebration as well as reflection. But, first and foremost, they are the occasions for remembrance and expression of gratitude. It is important to remember all the martyrs who made the ultimate sacrifice so that the succeeding generations could live as a free, independent and sovereign nation.

Over the past 76 years, the DG ISSI added, Pakistan has achieved so much that it should be proud of. A country, being written off due to complex social, political, and economic problems at the outset and lacking basic infrastructure and vital resources, has not only survived well but also has become a formidable member of the comity of nations with nuclear capability — only through sheer grit, tenacity and resilience. These are the attributes of living nations.

Amb Sohail Mahmood stressed that the key in this regard is an abiding commitment to the Quaid's vision of Pakistan as an economically strong, socially progressive, democratic, Islamic welfare state. "Peace Within, Peace Without" was a cardinal principle of Quaid's vision for Pakistan as a polity and nation-state. Faithful implementation of this vision would enable Pakistan to attain sustainable peace, progress and prosperity, he emphasised.

"Abiding commitment to Quaid's Vision is the best path forward for Pakistan" — ISSI's Web Celebration on Independence Day 2023

The research faculty from the centers of excellence and staff officers, while expressing their views, noted the challenges being currently faced and underlined the imperatives of unity, faith, discipline, continued hard work, patience, tolerance, perseverance and resilience. They shed light on the need for a positive attitude, a forward-looking approach, sacrifice, and valuing the freedom achieved several decades ago and working hard for the fulfillment of the vision of Pakistan.

In his concluding remarks, Ambassador Khalid Mahmood Chairman BoG, ISSI stated that Independence Day is not only a day of celebration but also a day of introspection. The people of Pakistan should always remember and respect the struggles and sacrifices made by their forefathers. Furthermore, think tanks like ISSI are playing a positive part in building the narrative of Pakistan and this important role should continue.

Chinese mainland announces anti-dumping measure on PC imports from Taiwan

Xinhua

BEIJING: The Chinese commerce ministry on Monday announced that deposits will be levied on polycarbonate (PC) imports from the Taiwan region starting from Tuesday as an anti-dumping measure.

PC imports from Taiwan have engaged in dumping activities, causing concrete damages to the mainland's PC industry, the commerce ministry said in a statement, citing a preliminary investigation.

Last year, the commerce ministry announced the launch of an anti-dumping investigation into PC imports from Taiwan.

Mainland firmly opposes Lai Ching-te's US 'stopover': spokesperson

Xinhua

BEIJING: A Chinese mainland spokesperson on Sunday voiced firm opposition to visit by Lai Ching-te to the United States in any name or under whatever pretext.

Zhu Fenglian, a spokesperson for the State Council Taiwan Affairs Office, made the remarks when asked for comments on Lai's arriving in New York for a "stopover."

We have stated our position clearly on Lai's U.S. "stopover" on many occasions, Zhu said, adding that the Chinese mainland firmly opposes Lai's acts to harm Taiwan by soliciting U.S. support for his independence agenda. She expressed firm opposition to any form of U.S. connivance and support for "Taiwan independence" separatists and their separatist activities.

Describing himself as "a pragmatic 'Taiwan independence' worker," Lai clings stubbornly to the separatist position for "Taiwan independence," Zhu said.

Under the pretext of "stopover," Lai is selling Taiwan away to grab selfish gains for his own election, which will ultimately damage the interests of the people of Taiwan and undermine the peace and stability in the Taiwan Strait, said Zhu, noting that he is a troublemaker through and through.

"Cross-Strait peace and stability and 'Taiwan independence' are as irreconcilable as water and fire," Zhu said.

These moves made by "Taiwan independence" separatist forces run counter to the dominant will of Taiwan people for peace, development, exchanges and cooperation. "In the end, they will only drag Taiwan into a treacherous zone of war and bring disaster to compatriots in Taiwan," Zhu said.

It is important to ensure that the historic opportunity for durable peace is not missed

Spokesman Report

ISLAMABAD: Today, the efforts for durable peace between Azerbaijan and Armenia have become the hostage of Armenia's policy of deliberate tension and revanchism, and face serious challenges.

Despite its first failure in December 2022, Armenia once again attempts to instrumentalize the UN Security Council for its political, military and informational manipulation campaign.

Moreover, Armenia is a country that had for almost 30 years brazenly disregarded the four resolutions of 1993 and series of Presidential Statements of the Security Council demanding full, immediate and unconditional withdrawal of occupying forces from the territory of Azerbaijan.

Armenia's appeal to the Security Council on groundless allegations of "worsening humanitarian situation" and "continued blockade" in the region yet again comes at a time when Armenia itself deliberately and intentionally obstructs all the efforts made through international partners to find a balanced, law-based and reasonable solution on the ground.

As it is well-known, wide-range abuse of the Lachin road by Armenia over past three years necessitated Azerbaijan's legitimate and legal action of establishing a border check-point to ensure security and order on its border. While Armenia attempted to portray this efforts as a "blockade" and requested the International Court of Justice (ICJ) to issue an order on removal of the checkpoint, the ICJ in its order of July 6 has unanimously rejected this request.

Armenia did not reconcile with the reality of being deprived of the means to supply and sustain its not fully withdrawn armed forces in the territory of Azerbaijan, and illicitly extract Azerbaijan's natural resources. Therefore, Armenia has started propaganda campaign worldwide, imposed series of military and other obstructions for the normal functioning of the border check-point, as well as for the use of other routes, such as Aghdam-Khankendi road for the Garabagh region of Azerbaijan.

Recently, following the series of intensive consultations and shuttle diplomacy efforts, agreement was finally reached with respect to delivery of humanitarian cargo to the Garabagh region through various routes, as well as the organization of the meeting between the Special Representative of Azerbaijan and representatives of local Armenian residents.

On the first case, concrete blocs and all other physical barriers imposed by the Armenian side on the use of Aghdam-Khankendi road should have been removed to allow the delivery of humanitarian cargo by the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) to meet the needs of local residents. This should have been followed by intensification of usage of the Lachin road by the ICRC within 24 hours. All the involved parties, including the Russian peacekeeping contingent and the ICRC, were prepared to realize this deal in practice.

On the second, a meeting between Azerbaijan's Special Representative and representatives of local Armenian residents was agreed to take place in Yevlakh.

Regrettably, on August 5, 2023, Armenia, through its illegally installed puppet regime, backstepped from both agreements at a last moment by introducing politically motivated and illegitimate preconditions and various pretexts.

In other words, what Armenia cynically seeks from the international community in general, and the UN Security Council in particular, was indeed within reach days ago in the result of active support of partners, including the members of Security Council. This did not materialize only due to the refusal by Armenia itself.

Had Armenia and its subordinate illegal structure honor the agreement, the situation would have been solved in early August providing a reasonable framework for the delivery of humanitarian cargo to the residents of the Garabagh region, and facilitation of routes for the passage of persons, goods and vehicles.

Therefore, there should be no doubt that notwithstanding the intensive engagement by Azerbaijan with the Russian Federation, the United States, European Union and ICRC for finding ways out of the situation, Armenia is deliberately obstructing diplomatic efforts.

of the Azerbaijani Airlines, but also those of foreign countries have been target to radio-electronic interference over past weeks, posing serious risk for their safety.

In parallel to illegal military build-up and activities in the sovereign territory of Azerbaijan where the Russian peacekeeping contingent has been temporarily deployed, large-scale accumulation of weaponry and other military equipment and personnel along the unlimited state border has also been observed over past days in an apparent effort to go into another military adventure.

The above-mentioned fully resembles the pattern that had been typical to Armenia throughout almost 30 years until September 2020 to imitate talks, escape from previously undertaken commitments at last minutes, and commit political, military and other provocations at every stage of negotiation to evade from taking concrete decisions.

Moreover, such actions of Armenia testify to the fact that Armenia didn't cease its territorial claims against Azerbaijan and her verbal recognition of Azerbaijan's territorial integrity is different from her deeds on the ground.

Following the 2020 war, Azerbaijan offered a peace to Armenia based on equal and reciprocal respect for legitimate interests of both sides through mutual recognition of and respect for each other's sovereignty, territorial integrity and inviolability of borders. On another track, Azerbaijan pursues the policy of reintegration of ethnic Armenian residents of the Garabagh region as equal citizens guaranteeing all the rights and freedoms envisaged in the Constitution of Azerbaijan and all relevant international human rights mechanisms that Azerbaijan is signatory. At the same time, Azerbaijan's adherence to both these tracks is without prejudice to its right to defend its sovereignty and territorial integrity by all legitimate means safeguarded in the UN Charter and other universal international law instruments.

At this critical juncture, sober apprehension of existing risks and adequate response by international community to Armenia's brazen provocations are necessary than ever to overcome the challenges facing the inter-state Armenia-Azerbaijan normalization process and the reintegration of local ethnic Armenian residents into Azerbaijan's political, legal and socio-economic framework.

It is important to ensure that the historic opportunity for durable peace is not missed.
